Final Word For Medical Boards

Official Bodies Must Pass on Each Man Called Up Under Military Service Act

Ottawa, Oct. 11.—A number of doctors throughout the country have been writing here to ask if a certificate of physical unfitness from a family physician will be accepted for release by a Medical Board instituted under the Military Service Act. The answer returned was a prompt negative.

Experience has shown that some family physicians are liable to be placed in an awkward position if certificates of physical unfitness granted by them are competent to secure freedom of responsibility under the Military Service Act for the some of some of their patients. Doctors might easily be subjected to annoyances of a most disagreeable kind if the idea were to spread that any one of them with a wave of his pen, might exempt a young man from military service. Under the scheme by which the Military Service Act is operated, the authorities will be guided by the Official Medical Boards.

In Command of The Air

It is not so long ago that we were thrilled by the news of the first cross-channel aeroplane flight. Now we take as a matter of course the news that comes today of a non-stop flight from London to Turin. In Northern Italy, a distance of 666 miles, which was covered in a little over seven hours. The same aviator had already gone 900 miles in Italy. We have come to expect such rapid development in the command of the air that it is probable that the first transatlantic trip will be made. It does not look as if it would be long delayed. From Newfound-land to Ireland is about 2000 miles.

WAR SAVINGS STAMPS

An Issue of 25-Cent Stamps to be Made in Canada

An interesting announcement in connection with the sale of war savings certificates in Canada has been made by the Finance minister. War savings stamps are in course of preparation. These will be issued in connection with war savings cards, of which the stamps will be placed. When all the equities are filed and ready will be taken to the post office and exchanged for one of the regular certificates. The stamps will be in the denominations of 25 cents and the cards will contain space for 36 of these and one 10-cent stamp, making $3.60 in all. For these 40 certificates will be given.

The stamp, which will be sold at post offices, will be of special design and will contain a reproduction of Partridge's famous drawing "Canada," commemorating the achievements of the first Canadian aviator, at Ypres, April, 1916. The proprietors of "Punch" have generously given permission to the minister of finance for the reproduction of the sketch. According to this plan, the minimum investment is reduced to 25c., which should place the means of saving within the reach of people of very limited means. At the same time it is worth the finance minister's consideration to extend the plan even further and allow the use of stamps of smaller denominations. A man of woman might be willing to put aside a five or 10c. stamp, when they would be sent to the post office and buy a special 5c. stamp.

More than five hundred carloads of whiskey, champagne and other wines valued at $3,000,000, were dumped into the bay at Guaymas, Sonora, Arizona, under the orders of the state authorities on August 28. The beverages were the accumulations of shipments to Mexico seized by the state since the abolition of the liquor traffic on January 1st, 1915.

Owing to the elevator being blocked a large quantity of grain is being threshed on the ground. Farmers who have contemplated letting horses to run the fields should hold them in until the grain can be removed. Otherwise a large waste of good grain may take place.

Major Lyndon Tells of War

Major A. W. Lyndon, a brother-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Walker of 1114 Third avenue north, gives an impressive view of arduous experience in a letter sent to Mr. and Mrs. Walker, of Grand Falls, Montana, dated August 29:

"Dear I. N.—Your letter of June 4th to hand. It has followed me all around the country, but at last reached me. I gave up my command in England the 27th of May and came out here early in June. I spent five weeks at the Vimy Ridge and was with my Battalion when we took Arras. I had 21 days before Lens. We had a pretty hard time of it, as it seemed to rain every day. Anyway, this is the wettest country I ever saw. There is nothing but rain and mud.

"When I was bringing my men out of the line one night, we got mixed with some gas shells. I lost some of my men and got a dose myself—not enough to knock me out, but enough to send me back for awhile. I was sent back to England in July. Expected to get back home, as they said I could go back to my battalion for months. They asked for some officer for transfer to the Imperials, so I put in for it and was sent right out here. Now I am with the Imperials. I can tell you I make one feel bad to be among soldiers that are all strangers, but I am getting along not too bad. Things are a bit quiet on the front just now. I have been in the trenches for a spell. Had a few days out now, but will be going back in a day or two. This is not the kind of fighting I like. You dig a hole, crawl into it and there they try to get you out with every kind of way. A man does not even have a chance to fight for his life. But we have them going out now. We can make a raid into their trenches any time we like and come back with a few prisoners, etc. The Boss have been able to make a raid into our trenches for months and get away with it. They are just holding back because they have all their defences ready to fall back to and we have to build up on the ground that has been shot to pieces. That is why we are slow. We have to move everything up over ground that is all mud, building new roads as we go along. This all takes time.

"Peace would be a welcome blessing to the people of this country. They have suffered heavily. It makes one's heart sore to see the damage that has been done to some of the beautiful cities. There are places here where large villages stood. If you were to pass through them now you would never know that a building ever stood there unless you were told.

"I am glad to hear that you are all well. It must be a great relief to you after the siege you had last year. I hope that Anna and the children will be able to go up and see Clara and the kids. I trust she has her hands full with everything to look after. I did not think I would be away so long. Once if my battalion had not been broken up into two drafts, I would have either been here or there wounded or finished altogether, but I was held so long in England. I was over here a short time last fall, but had to give up the same so last time. I am sorry I did not get the box of cigars you sent me for Christmas, but I thank you for sending them just the same. There were lots of packages lost last Christmas—some one was ahead. I was in hopes I would be back for this Christmas, but there is no chance now.

"I am waiting to see the U.S. boys make their first strike. They will find they are up against something different from anything they ever expected. You cannot hear the faintest idea what it is like till you once get in it. It is hell if there ever was such a thing. No mind can conceive it until one has been through it. I think that the more you see the more you make a good hard strike. If it is a success, it will have the effect of bringing things to an early end. If they make the same dash as our Com-

An Inch of Rain Means That Over 113 Tons of Water Per Acre Has Fallen

You have often seen the statement that one rainfall during the season will mean as much as a year's worth of rain. This is not an exaggeration. For example, if it rains one inch in a week, that is 113 tons of water per acre.

You read in the weather bulletins that two or three inches of rain means a fall of a day's work. This is not an exaggeration. For example, if it rains one inch in a week, that is 113 tons of water per acre. This is not an exaggeration. For example, if it rains one inch in a week, that is 113 tons of water per acre.

Conditions in Foo Munition Factories Bad

Swedish Workmen Had to Escape
Slavery by Stealth

A Swede has just returned from six weeks' work in a German munition factory at Tientsin with a story that is hardly surprising to those who are familiar with the conditions of the country.

The Swede, who is now in the hands of the German government, was taken to the factory by a German named Bilz, who had been recruiting for the German government in Sweden and Denmark for German munition factories.

Bilz promised the Swede ten marks a day, with only two marks for food and lodging. He accepted and on the second day he began to feel the food was not so good as he had been told.

The Swede was told that he was to be paid ten marks a day, but he was only paid two marks. He was told that he was to be paid ten marks a day, but he was only paid two marks.

Children Starving

Pliable Field of Little Ones in Syria and Palestine

More than 10,000,000 people in Syria and Palestine are dependent on outside relief for necessities of life.

In Lebanon, and in Syria, not including Palestine according to reports of missionaries who recently arrived in New York. They said it was extremely doubtful whether many of these children could survive the coming winter if relief does not reach them in a more substantial form than cereals.

In many instances, the missionaries say, little children are so badly enough to feed themselves, were kept by relief workers living absolutely alone, begging for enough food to keep them alive and fasting while watching the grain of a train.

Majority of these were girls, who had turned to begging and were in a state of resistance or to having been left by their brothers who starved.

People with thin blood are much more subject to headaches than full-blooded persons, and the form of headache that is most common is almost always accompanied by dizziness, together with disturbance of the digestive organs.

Americans Advised

To Make Kraut
German Methods Must Be Used to Save Surplus of Bumper Crop

London has been urged to employ German methods to save America's bumper crop. The emergency committee of the department of agriculture reported that tremendous quantities of foodstuffs are being hoarded in Germany, and that unless the surplus is sold, it will be lost.

Despite that fact that we're at war with Germany, the main reason is so that the surplus can be sold. The price of foodstuffs is so high that it is not possible to sell the surplus at a profit.

The surplus of foodstuffs is so large that it is not possible to sell the surplus at a profit. The price of foodstuffs is so high that it is not possible to sell the surplus at a profit.

"Lucks," alone never sold a good motor car. While the Gray Dory could hardly be improved for beauty, and for a personality, a Fifth Ave. elegance, that make it unique on exclusive thoroughfares anywhere—the man who wants a motor car is the man for whom it was originally built. Its cylinders are cooled independently; it is the only car in its price-class carrying the Westinghouse electric system; clutch and brake are combined in a single four-pedal. The Gray Dory crankshaft and rear axle are extra-heavy; fenders and bumper are squeak-proof; and in equipment it is complete to the last detail. Value $1,030, this makes the Gray Dory the best motor car in the world for money.

The Gray Dory motor car is the symbol of wealth—the symbol of motor car goodness. It is the responsibility of the manufacturer, the continued service it will render to you, and the saving value of the mechanical parts which compose it. It is the visible pledge of the maker for the satisfaction which his product will give its owner.

Parliament and Business

The committee of the Commons appointed to act with a like committee from the Senate to consider, during the present session, and report the total cost, including incidental expenses, of each session of parliament, and the loss, if any, of reducing, same reported that it has been unable to make much progress and has recommended that a similar committee be appointed next session.

This appeals to us as another outstanding example of the business incomprehension of some of the men handling the country's national affairs. Here was a committee given the straight-forward proposition of inquiring into the cost of parliament and the possibility of reducing that cost. They give the matter "the berick."

In every direction efforts are being made to secure efficiency in administration where in these times of national stress expense can be reduced or labor conserved but at Ottawa a man in this direction has quite obviously been smothered in politics—and government jobs will continue to be "government jobs" until after the coming election at least.

We are paying too dearly for our system of government. We might do with a parliament half the size of our present parliament. The same might be said regarding our Provincial parliament. The expense of government might easily be cut in half in Canada and to the advantage of the country. By far the majority of government positions are filled by incompetent men. We shall never get adequate returns for the money spent by the government until appointments are made on merit instead of for services rendered at a past election.

Red Cross Urgently in Need of Funds

An appeal has been made to Canadian branches of the Red Cross Society for more supplies. October 15th is the date set for the counting up of results of this extra appeal. What are you doing to help? Are you one of those who are satisfied to stay at home, enjoying British liberties, enjoying the fruits of the battle being fought by others, making more money in one year than they formerly made in ten, and yet when approached on a tag day or any other occasion you grudgingly subtract a dime or nickel from your jeans and with an apologetic smile hand it to the tag girl, probably at the same time the thought flashes through your narrow mind, "well this is a mighty small tag," to be spending good money for?

Southern Alberta has been blessed with three good big crops. Men who four years ago found it hard to buy a new pair of overalls, are now driving new automobiles, and to see them swell up when they swing around in a cloud of dust, you get the impression that they wish one to think it has been by their own astuteness, business ability or cleverness that has brought this prosperity to them. How many if any have ever in the last three years thought along similar lines to this?

We plough the fields and scatter The good seed on the land, But, it is fed and watered By God's almighty hand. He sends the snow in winter, The warmth to swell the grain, The breezes and the sunshine And soft refreshing rain.

Don't take too much credit on yourself, give thanks where thanks is due, and when approached by some one of the sisters of mercy for a contribution to help relieve the suffering of some one at the front, who has done his bit, towards securing for you and yours the perpetuation of the freedom you now enjoy, don't dig around in the corners of your pockets for the nickels and dimes, but show your thankfulness and the size of your heart by coming across with something worth while, surely your heart is bigger than a nickel.

British note war bond.

The C. N. R.

Our western papers seem to have overlooked, that the acquisition by the Dominion government of the Canadian Northern Railway system will relieve the provinces of Alberta of a large liability in the guaranteed bonds of the railway company. The financial position of the province has consequently been greatly improved. We hope our conservative friends will make allowance for this when compiling their figures on the indebtedness of the province.

Alberta Prosperous

The Financial Post is recommending to Eastern buyers to purchase Alberta bonds if they can be obtained. It says of the province, "Its resources are so great and prospects so good that the security behind the various bond issues is sound." Those of us who know the province have no hesitancy in saying that its natural resources make it one of the richest countries in the world. Some of our farmers are realizing over $100 worth of wheat per acre this year. Our wheat fields alone are a valuable asset to the province. If the present prosperity continues it should not be difficult for the government to get all the money it needs for public improvements without going outside the province.

The Next War Loan

It is estimated that the western Canadian wheat crop will be worth $500,000,000. This vast amount of cash that will soon be in the pockets of the farmers should make it easy for the government to obtain its next war loan. Farmers should feel it a duty to put some of their money into this to help finance and finish the war. The amount of the next war loan will be for $150,000,000, which should be easily obtained.

$457,482 Estate Partly Handled by Local Courts

The district court of Calgary has been occupied with the settlement of the Alberta portion of the estate of William Vallance, of the well-known firm of Wool, Vallance & Leggitt Co., and in Nelson, Winnipeg and other cities under other variations of title. The name of Mr. Vallance appears in each company, and his estate is one of the largest ever handled through the local court. It is valued at $457,482, and the Alberta portion is valued at $1,000. The local estate consists of mortgages on property at Staveland.

An Ideal Place to Live

For Sale, at Kamloops, B.C., 160 acres of good land, well improved, 10 room house, good buildings, close to town and railroad. Price, $7,500. Apply Rev. Geo. Adair, 1001 10th St.

The wheat yields reported from Nobelford and Brouse districts sound small when compared with the big yields in this district. As high as 40 bushels per acre are reported near Stacey and 40 bushel crops are common.

A Kentucky Cinderella

There is only one flash of downright villainy in "A Kentucky Cinderella," to be presented in Bluebird photo-plays at the Rex theatre on Friday and Saturday when Rupert Julian, Ruth Clifford and an all-star company will present F. Hopkinson Smith's clever story in screen-vision. This is when claim jumpers try to frighten from a mining camp in the Sierra Nevada two old pals who have been playing the game squarely and earnestly in seeking the yellow-metal. By the code of the early West this feud is settled, when quickly drawn "guns" adjust the argument on fair terms. The incident serves simply to fire the tale with the true spirit of the times, and paves the way for the unfolding of an interesting story that runs along, otherwise, with out crime or villainy. From the rugged beauties of the Sierra Nevada the scene shifts to rustic Kentucky, where scenes in the old south are melted by the realism of Director Rupert Julian's artistry. Mr. Julian, accidentally, shares with Ruth Clifford the honors of stardom in leading an all-star company through the gripping scenes and swiftly moving episodes of an altogether clever entertainment.

Hill Breezes

McD. Bros. have now finished their threshing, and Murtz is now ready for his fall trips, so, girls, get on your little blue bonnets and get busy on the phone. He will be there to answer your calls.

Some one does with the digging of their spuds and garden stuff, but others have not started yet—waiting for cold fingers.

It seems to be a hard matter to get a number on the phone from central. Too many sitting around to evil the operator's attention from her work.

W. Cochrane has not been making many trips to town lately. Must be pretty busy. Too bad to work so hard, Will.

C. E. Treed is now taking his long needed rest after laying out other hard work through the hot weather. J. Baird is getting rather tired with threshing and other laborious work. Never mind, Jack, think of the good prices for wheat.

W. G. Smith is getting along nicely with his socking and other work and will soon be through.

NOTE AND COMMENT

BY THE TOWN CICKER

Kickers may be asses and asses may be kickers—both are useful in their own way. For myself I prefer to be a "kicker" rather than a clown who declares his opinions, rather than one who keeps eternal silence through fear of consequences. The fact that Clareholm is on the way to glory may be attributed very largely to men who refused to keep silent about mismanagement and blunders.

There was little or no "criticism" of the council in my article of Sept. 28. I merely asked a few questions, viz: Is it the intention of the Council to keep their promise to extend the street lighting system? (2) Why does not the editor publish reports of council proceedings? The editor at once buckles on his armor and rushes to the defence of the council in a lot of questions that were never touched on at all.

All right, old sport. If it is your desire to broaden the scope of the argument I have no objection.

The reason about being the intention of the Council to use gas for fuel instead of coal is, to say the least, questionable. The engine is still in a knock down condition and no effort is being made to set it up. Yet I am convinced that given a fair trial and good management that the gas engine would prove a good investment for the town. The facts, as I understand them, are as follows: The gas engine can be operated at an expense of 55¢ per day. At present we are paying from $12 to $15 a night for coal.

The gas engine, although it has never been tried, is not supposed to be powerful enough to furnish light for the town and at the same time operate the 60 h.p. pumping plant out at the creek. Because the gas engine cannot accomplish both jobs at once the councilors contracted cold feet and are afraid to go any further. They have never explained why they did not get an engine strong enough in the first place, but having made the mistake what is to prevent them from doing the next best thing—operate the plant to its full capacity. The gas engine can run for 24 hours at less expense than the present system. In addition to the extra light that would be consumed if fuel was available there are a number of plants of town that would jump at the chance of substituting electricity for gas, especially at present prices for gas.

The gas engine would undoubtedly be glad to get electric energy for their work, and their business alone is well worth going after. In this kind of a business, you don't know what you can do till you try, and hard and intelligently. The extra earnings from the sale of power would be a whole lot.

In the matter of the franchise fiasco the editor strongly asserts that the councilors were not to blame. I'm from Missouri. Certainly the editor didn't prove them blameless in that deal. Mr. Bower, before the franchise was voted on, brought up the subject of the commercial standing of these company—promoting "engineers". He asked some very pertinent questions about them. Did the council heed the warning and investigate even when the subject was dragged under their nose? No! Bower was only a "kicker"—but the "kicker" was right, and subsequent events prove that Mr. Bower's judgment and foresight was a real and good.

In conclusion, I would ask a question. Who pays all the expenses in connection with that franchise bylaw? Did the council see to it that in case the engineers failed to take up the franchise they would pay all costs connected therewith? I presume they were showed enough business sense for that, but I crave your assurance. You will tell me won't you, please?

An order of court has been passed on the recommendation of the minister of interior providing that where the estate for a homestead is being in the military or naval forces during the present war, the minister may relieve him from the necessity of building a house upon his homestead before the patent is granted.

The grain buyers are denouncing that the government that set the price of wheat shall guarantee that the buyers can realize the price on their purchases. This seems to be a fair request.

Get Behind the Wheel of a Ford and Drive

TRY it just once! Ask your friend to let you "pilot" his car on an open stretch. You'll like it, and will be surprised how easily the Ford is handled and driven.

If you have never felt the thrill of driving your own car, there is something good in store for you. It is vastly different from just riding—being a passenger. And especially so if you drive a Ford.

Young boys, girls, women and even grandfathers—thousands of them—are driving Ford cars and enjoying it. A Ford stops and starts in traffic with exceptional ease and smoothness, while on country roads and hills its strength and power show to advantage.

Buy a Ford and you will want to be behind "the wheel" constantly.
